In the UPPER HOUSE of ASSEMBLY,

Dies Saturni, the 14th Day of August, 1773.

ORDERED,

THAT the following PROCEEDINGS of this House be printed and made public.

JAMES SIMPSON, Clerk.

The Humble Address of this House to His Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

To the Honourable WILLIAM BULL, Esq; Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief, in and over the said Province.

The Address of the UPPER HOUSE of ASSEMBLY.

May it please your Honour,

WE His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Upper House of Assembly, with an ardent Desire to discharge our Duty to our most gracious Sovereign, and to the Public, do beg Leave to address your Honour, upon the State of the Treasury, which we have taken into our most serious Consideration.

We have made an Enquiry into this truly momentuous Subject, with that Candour and Temper of Mind, which ought to take Place in all Deliberations, tending to promote the Public Good.

The Result of our Enquiries, we are truly sorry to say, has impressed upon us Ideas of the most alarming Nature, no less alarming, than the certain Prospect, that the Public Treasury must very shortly stop Payment, unless the most speedy and most effectual Steps are taken to prevent so fatal an Event, the Consequences of which must not only overwhelm the Public with Distress at Home, but give almost a mortal Wound to its Credit Abroad.

Although we are not immediate Representatives of the People, yet we are among the Guardians of the Public. We therefore cannot, with a criminal Silence, see the Interests and the Honour of this Province suffer a cruel Wound by the Failure of the Public Treasury; the Credit of which has always been, and is as yet, at least equal to the Credit of any in America.

Upon examining the Treasury Accounts, it appeared to this House, that on the First Day of June last, the Sum of £127,674 was due on Account of Public Duties, of which large Sum the Treasurers could not procure one Shilling. That only the small Sum of £10,000 was actually in the Treasury, issuable upon the many and large Demands to which it is liable, and that various Sums to the Amount of £158,476 had at divers Times been drawn out of the Treasury, by Virtue of Laws directing such Sums to be advanced, out of any of the Funds, which Sums were afterwards to be replaced by a General Tax, as usual in such Cases.

The trading Part of this Province may now sincerely lament that a Tax Bill has not been passed into a Law since the Year 1769. If Tax Bills had been passed since that Time, they would as usual have replaced in the Treasury that large Sum of £158,476 and by that Means to this Day, the Sum of £168,476 would actually be in the Treasury, issuable and ready, as it ought to be, to answer every legal Demand; in such a Case, no Failure in the Treasury could have been now apprehended, and therefore there would not have been any Necessity to compel the Payment of the Money due to the Treasury on Account of Duties.

In Justice as well to the Public as to this House, we do assure your Honour, that at all Times we have been ready to give our Concurrence to any Tax Bill which could be of public Benefit, framed upon the fundamental Principles of the Constitution; and this House does likewise assure your Honour, that if we had given our Concurrence to any Tax Bill which has been brought up to us since the Year 1769, we should have surrendered our Rights as Legislators, and should thereby have betrayed that Constitution by which we are bound to regulate our Proceedings.

Possessed as we are of the tender Sentiments of Humanity, and unwilling to create Distress to any Part of the Community, yet anxious for the public Credit, we cannot but recur to the indispensable Duties of our Station. We do therefore most humbly address your Honour, that you will be pleased to order the Attorney-General to compel those Persons who have been longest indebted for Public Duties forthwith to pay into the Public Treasury, the Sum of £50,000, and that your Honour at the same Time will be pleased to order the Attorney-General, that after the Expiration of Three Months, he shall cause the Remainder of the Sum owing for Duties on the First Day of June last, to be paid as soon as may be possible.

By Order of the House,

EGERTON LEIGH.

In the Upper House of Assembly, the 13th Day of August, 1773.

Sir Egerton Leigh reported, That this House had presented their Address to his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, and that his Honour had been pleased to make the following ANSWER to it.

Honourable Gentlemen,

I SHALL without Loss of Time give such Directions as may prevent the alarming Event relative to the Public Treasury, mentioned in your Address, and this I shall take Care to do in such Manner, and at such Periods, as shall appear to me to be effectually conducive to that End, which I hope will create no Distress to any Part of the Community, as I intend it shall occasion as few Inconveniencies to the Persons concerned, as can consist with the Public Service.

WILLIAM BULL.

August 14th, 1773.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to take the Answer of his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor to the Address of this House into Consideration, and that Mr. Stuart, Mr. Chief Justice, and Mr. William-Henry Drayton, be a Committee for that Purpose.

Ordered, That the said Committee do sit immediately.

Mr. Drayton reported from the Committee, to consider of his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor's Answer to the Address of this House, that they were ready to make their Report when the House would be pleased to receive the same.

Resolved, That the Report be received immediately; Mr. Drayton read the Report, and delivered it in at the Clerk's Table, where it was again read, and a Debate thereupon arose; and a Motion being made that the House do now adjourn.

The House adjourned till Five o'Clock this Afternoon.

In the UPPER HOUSE of ASSEMBLY,

Dies Saturni, 14th August, 1773. P. M.

The House proceeded to take into Consideration, the Answer of his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, to the Address of this House, and after some time spent in Debate thereupon, the House unanimously came to the following RESOLUTIONS,

Resolved, That it is not only the undoubted Right, but it is the indispentable Duty of this House, at all Times, to examine into the State of the Public Treasury, and to address, counsel and advise the Governor in every Matter relative thereto, which shall appear to this House to be conducive to the Public Credit, and Honour, and to the Safety and Protection of the Public Treasure.

Resolved, That it is the Opinion of this House, that the Address of this House to his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, contains Matter of the utmost Importance to the Public, and is at the same Time conceived in Terms both dutiful and respectful to his Honour.

Resolved, That it is the Opinion of this House, that the Advice contained in the said Address, is in Substance wholesome, beneficial, and expedient.

Resolved, That this House will, under every Discouragement, loyally, dutifully, and humbly tender their Counsel and Advice when the Credit of the Country is at Stake; and the rather, as one Branch of the Legislature has hitherto omitted to interpose its provident Care, to avert the fatal Consequences arising from the present declining State of public Credit.

Resolved, That this House is actuated by the most sincere and disinterested Motives of Loyalty and Duty to the King, and of the most tender Affection and Regard to the lasting Happiness and Welfare of this Country.

CHARLES-TOWN, AUGUST 16.

ACCORDING to the last Accounts from London, to the 24th of June, it was expected, that the Parliament would be prorogued on the First of July—the East-India regulating Bill, and a Bill to prevent Paper Bills of Credit from being declared legal Payment in America, had received the Royal Assent—and there were Appearances of as great a Crop of Grain, &c. throughout England as ever were known. In all Parts of Europe (except France) there was a like Appearance of fine Crops.

From the GENERAL GAZETTE, published by Mr. WELLS, dated FRIDAY, AUGUST 13, 1773.

"LONDON, June 12. From the Account of the Votes on appointing Judges in India, it appears very clear, that the Scotch, so far from having the Rule in that Motley Affair, have not the least Degree of Power or Favour, but English and Hibernian Wisdom have hatched that blessed Brood. As an irrefragable Proof, Irish Barristers are admitted to a Seat on the Indian Bench, Nem. Con. Scotch Advocates have but six Votes, not one-sixth Part of the cabalistical Number whereof their own Representation consists; let Scotland no more bear the Blame of the mad Councils that now prevail."

From the GAZETTEER & NEW DAILY ADVERTISER.

"LONDON, June 9. The second Division (Yesterday, on the East-India regulating Bill) was occasioned by Mr. Dempster's Proposal in the Clause relative to the appointing of Chief Justice and Judges, that they should be nominated, being Barristers of not less than five Years standing. Mr. Dempster further proposed adding, after the Word Barristers, or Members of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland. This drew up Mr. Whitworth, who thought it very hard that the Irish ALONE should be excluded; and just as the House were going to agree to Mr. Dempster's Proposition, Mr. Whitworth moved, that the Barristers of Ireland might also be included. Dr. Burell also wished that the Civil Law Doctors of England might not be excluded, but that they might be joined with the Scotch Advocates in Mr. Dempster's Question; the Whole of which being to be put, Lord Falkstone and Mr. Whitworth desired it might be divided, and the Sense of the House taken separately upon each. Accordingly the first Question was put upon the Words England or Ireland, which passed in the Affirmative without a Division. The Speaker then put the other Part of the Question relative to the Advocates of Scotland, together with Dr. Burrell's Question to the Civil Law, which he had desired might be added to Mr. Dempster's Motion: Upon which the House divided, that those Words stand Part of the Clause,—Noes 193, Ayes 6. Alas! poor Scotland, for once Old England has triumphed!"

Last Tuesday died, Mrs. Elizabeth Reid, the Wife of Mr. Andrew Reid.

Thursday last being his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales's Birth-Day, the same was observed here, by a Display of Flags, and firing the Great Guns at Noon from the several Forts and Bastions, and His Majesty's Frigate Lizard.

Yesterday embarked for Philadelphia, in the Brigt. Prince of Wales, Mr. John Benfield, Mr. Joshua Hart, and some other Passengers. Also lately gone from this Province, Robert Raper, Esq; Naval Officer for this Port, and Mr. Mercer, for New-York; and Mr. Robert Stott, and Mr. Jacob Read, for England.

Yesterday Morning died Mrs. Imrie, the Wife of Mr. John Imrie, Shipwright.

Lately was married at Camden, in St. Mark's Parish, Mr. John August, to Miss Polly Cook, an agreeable young Lady, with every Endowment that can ensure Happiness in Wedlock, Daughter of Captain John Cook.

DEAR SIR, Boston, 10th December, 1768.

I AM just now informed that a number of the Council, perhaps eight or ten, who live in and near this town, have met together, and agreed upon a long address or petition to Parliament, and that it will be sent by this ship to Mr. Bollan, to be presented. Mr. Danforth, who is President of the Council, told the Governor, upon enquiry, that it was sent to him to sign, and he supposed the rest of the Council who had met together, would sign after him in order, but he had since found that they had wrote over his name, By order of the Council, which makes it appear to be an act of Council. This may be a low piece of cunning in him, but be it as it may, it it is proper it should be known, that the whole is no more than the doings of a part of the Council only, although even that is not very material, since, they had all been present without the Governor's summons, the meeting would have been irregular and unconstitutional, and ought to be discountenanced and censured. I suppose there is no instance of the Privy Council's meeting and doing business, without the King's presence or special direction, except in committees, upon such business as by his Majesty's order has been referred to them by an act of Council, and I have known no instance here, without the Governor, until within three or four months past.

I thought it very necessary the circumstances of this proceeding should be known, though if there be no necessity for it, I think it would be best it should not be known that the intelligence came from me.

I am, with very great respect, Sir,
Your most humble and most obedient servant,

THOMAS HUTCHINSON.

DEAR SIR, Boston, 30th January, 1769.

YOU have laid me under very great obligations, by the very clear and full account of the proceedings in Parliament, which I received from you by Capt. Scott. You have also done much service to the people of the province. For a day or two after the ship arrived, the enemies of government gave out, that their friends in Parliament were encreasing, and all things would be soon on the old footing; in other words, that all acts imposing duties would be repealed, the Commissioners board dissolved, the Customs put upon the old footing, and illicit trade be carried on with little or no hazard. It was very fortunate that I had it in my power to prevent such a false representation thro' the province. I have been very cautious of using your name, but I have been very free in publishing abroad the substance of your letter, and declaring that I had my intelligence from the best authority, and have, in a great measure, defeated the ill design in raising and attempting to spread so groundless a report. What marks of resentment the Parliament will show, whether they will be upon the province in general, or particular persons, is extremely uncertain, but that they will be placed somewhere is most certain, and I add, because I think it ought to be so that those who have been most steady in preserving the constitution, and opposing the licentiousness of such as call themselves Sons of Liberty, will certainly meet with favour and encouragement.

This is most certainly a crisis; I really wish that there may not have been the least degree of severity, beyond what is absolutely necessary to maintain, I think I may say to you, the dependance which a colony ought to have upon the present state; but if no measures shall have been taken to secure this dependance, or nothing more than some declaratory acts or resolves, it is all over with us. The friends of government will be utterly disheartened, and the friends of anarchy will be afraid of nothing, be it ever so extravagant.

The last vessel from London had a quick passage. We expect to be in suspence for the three or four next weeks, and then to hear our fate. I never think of the measures, necessary for the peace and good order of the colonies, without pain. There must be an abridgment of what are called English liberties. I relieve myself by considering, that in a remove from the state of nature, to the most perfect state of government, in which a colony, 3000 miles distant from the parent state, shall enjoy all the liberty of a parent state. I am certain I have never yet seen the projection. I wish the good of the colony when I wish to see some further restraint of liberty, rather than the connection with the parent state should be broken; for I am sure such a breach must prove the ruin of the colony. Pardon me this excursion, it really proceeded from the state of mind into which our perplexed affairs often throws me. I have the honour to be, with very great esteem, Sir,

Your most humble and most obedient servant,

THOMAS HUTCHINSON.

DEAR SIR, Boston, 30th October, 1769.

I THANK you for your last favour of July 18th. I fancy in my last to you, about two months ago, I have answered the greatest part of it.

My opinion upon the combination of the merchants, I gave to you very fully. How long they will be able to continue them, if Parliament should not interpose, is uncertain. In most articles they may another year, and you run the risque of their substituting, when they are put to their shifts, something of their own in the place of what they used to have from you, and which they will never return to you for. But it is not possible, that provision for dissolving these combinations, and subjecting all who do not renounce them, to penalties adequate to the offence, should not be made the first week the Parliament meets. Certainly all parties will unite in so extraordinary a case, if they never do in any other. So much has been said upon the repeal of the duties laid by the last act, that it will render it very difficult to keep people's minds quiet, if that should be refused them. They deserve punishment, you will say, but laying or continuing taxes upon all cannot be thought equal, seeing many will be punished who are not offenders. Penalties of another kind seem better adapted.

I have been tolerably treated since the Governor's departure, no other charge being made against me in our scandalous newspapers except my bad principles in matters of government, and this charge has had little effect, and a great many friends give me applause.

I must beg the favour of you to keep secret every thing

write, until we are in a more settled state, for the party here either by their agent, or by some other emissaries in London, have sent them every report or rumour of the contents of letters wrote from hence, I hope we shall see better times both here and in England. I am with great esteem, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

THOMAS HUTCHINSON.

SIR, Boston, 7th May, 1767.

I AM indebted to you, for the obliging manner in which you received my recommendation of my good friend Mr. Paxton, as well as for the account you are pleased to send me, of the situation of affairs in the Mother Country.

I am very sorry that the colonies give you so much employment, and it is impossible to say how long it will be before things settle into quiet among us. We have some here, who have been so busy in fomenting the late disturbances, that they may now think it needful, for their own security, to keep up the spirit. They have plumed themselves much upon the victory they have gained, and the support they have since met with; nor could any thing better shew what they would still be at, than the manner in which, by their own account published in the news-papers last August, they celebrated the 14th of that month, as the first anniversary commemoration of what they had done at the tree of liberty on that day the year before. Here a number of respectable Gentlemen, as they inform us, now met, and among other toasts, drank General Paoli, and the Spark of Liberty kindled in Spain. I am now speaking of a few individuals only, the body of the people are well disposed, yet when you come to see the journal of the House of Representatives the last session, I fear you would think that the same spirit had seized our public Councils. I can, however, fairly say thus much in behalf of the government, that the last House was packed, by means of a public proscription, just before the election, of the greatest part of those who had appeared in the preceeding session in the support of government; their names were published in an inflammatory news-paper, and their constituents made to believe they were about to sell them for slaves. Writs are now out for a new Assembly, but I cannot answer for the choice: I hope however, that the people in general are in a better temper; yet the moderate men have been so browbeaten in the House, and found themselves so insignificant there the last year, that some of them will voluntarily decline coming again. I think this looks too much like a despair of the commonwealth, and cannot be justified on patriotic principles.

The election of Counsellors was carried the last year, as might have been expected from such an House. The officers of the Crown, and the Judges of the Superior Court were excluded. And I hear that it is the design of some who expect to be returned members of the House this year, to make sure work at the ensuing election of Counsellors, by excluding, if they can, the gentlemen of the Council (who by charter remain such till others are chosen in their room) from any share in the choice, though they have always had their voice in it hitherto, from the first arrival of the charter. If the House do this, they will have it in their power to model the Council as they please, and throw all the powers of government into the hands of the people, unless the governor should again exert his negative, as he did the last year.

You have doubtless seen some of the curious messages from the late Houses to the Governor, and can't but have observed with how little decency they have attacked both the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. They have also, in effect, forced the Council to declare themselves parties in the quarrel they had against the latter, in a matter of mere indifference. In their message to the Governor of the 31st of January, they have explicitly charged the Lieutenant-Governor (a gentleman to whom they are more indebted than to any one man in the government) with "ambition and lust of power," merely for paying a compliment to the Governor, agreeable to ancient usage, by attending him to Court, and being present in Council-Chamber when he made his speech, at the opening of the session; at which time they go on to say, "none but the General Court and their servants, are intended to be present," still holding out to the people the servants of the Crown as objects of insignificance, ranking the Secretary with their Door-keeper, as servants of the Assembly; for the Secretary with his Clerks and Door-keeper, are the only persons present with the Assembly on these occasions.

The officers of the Crown being thus lessened in the eyes of the people, takes off their weight and influence, and the balance will of course turn in favour of the people, and what makes them still more insignificant is, their dependance on the people for a necessary support: If something were left to the good-will of people, yet nature should be sure of a support. The Governor's salary has, for about 35 years past, been pretty well understood to be a Thousand Pounds a year sterling. When this sum was first agreed to, it was very well; but an increase of wealth since, has brought along with it an increase of luxury, so that what was sufficient to keep up a proper distinction, and support the dignity of a Governor then, may well be supposed to be insufficient for the purpose now. The Lieutenant-Governor has no appointment as such: The Captainey of Castle-William, which may be worth £120 sterling a year, is looked upon indeed as an appendage to his commission, and the late Lieutenant-Governor enjoyed no other appointment; he lived a retired life upon his own estate in the country, and was easy. The present Lieutenant-Governor, indeed, has other appointments, but the people are quarrelling with him for it, and will not suffer him to be easy, unless he will retire also.

The Secretary may have something more than £200 a year sterling, but has for the two last years been allowed £60 lawful money a year less than had been usual for divers years preceding, though it had convinced the House, by their committee, that without this deduction he would have had no more than £250 sterling per ann. in fees, perquisites, and salary altogether, which is not the one half of his annual expence.

The Crown did by charter, reserve to itself the appointment of a Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and Secretary; the design of this was, without doubt to maintain some balance between the powers of the Crown and of the people; but if officers are not, in some measure independant of the people (for it is difficult to serve two masters) they will sometimes have a hard struggle between duty to the Crown, and a regard to self, which must be a very disagreeable situation to them, as well as a weakening to the authority of government. The officers of the Crown are very few, and are therefore the more easily provided for, without burdening the people: And such provision I look upon as necessary to the reforation and support of the King's authority.

But it may be said, how can any new measures be taken without raising new disturbances? The manufacturers in England will rise again, and defeat the measures of government. This game, it is true, has been played once, and succeeded, and it has been asserted here, that it is in the power of the colonies at any time to raise a rebellion in England, by refusing to send for their manufactures. For my own part I do not believe this. The merchants in England, and I do not know but those in London and Bristol only, might always govern in this matter, and quiet the manufacturer. The merchant's view is always to his own interest. As the trade is now managed, the dealer have funds to the merchant in England for his goods; upon these goods the English merchants puts a profit of 10 or more probably of 15 per cent. when he sends them to his employer in America. The merchant is so jealous of foregoing this profit, that an American trader cannot well purchase the goods he wants of the manufacturer; for should the merchant know that the manufacturer had supplied an American, he would take off no more of his wares, The merchants therefore having this profit in view, will, by one means or other, secure it. They know the goods which the American market demands, and may therefore safely take them off from the manufacturer, though they should have no orders for shipping them this year, or perhaps the next; and I dare say it would not be longer before the Americans would clamour for a supply of goods from England, for it is vain to think they could supply themselves. The merchant might then put an advanced price upon his goods, and possibly be able to make his own terms; or if it should be thought the goods would not bear an advanced price to indemnify him, it might be worth while for the government to agree with the merchants before-hand, to allow them a premium equivalent to the advance of their stock, and then the game would be over.

I have wrote with freedom, in confidence of my name's not being used on the occasion. For though I have wrote nothing but what in my conscience I think an American may upon just principles advance, and what a servant of the Crown ought upon all proper occasions, to suggest, yet the many prejudices I have to combat with may render it unfit it should be made public.

I communicated to Governor Barnard what you mentioned concerning him, who desires me to present you his compliments, and let you know, that he is obliged to you for the expressions of your regard for his injured character. I am with the greatest respect, Sir,

Your most obedient and most humble servant,

ANDREW OLIVER."

I ask your acceptance of a journal of the last session, which is put up in a box, directed to the Secretary of the Board of Trade." [To be continued.]

THE growing Importance of the College of NEW-JERSEY, (for the Use of which the above Lottery is principally designed) is now generally known through every Province of America. It has hitherto subsisted, and been raised to its present Situation, entirely by the Favour of the Public. In the Centre of North-America, and in a pleasant, healthy Country, it is well fitted for the most extensive Usefulness. The Success which has attended the vigorous Efforts already made, to raise its Funds, and furnish the Means of a complete and finished Education, to all who are sent to it, has encouraged those concerned in the present Attempt; especially as several very judicious Persons have warmly recommended it, signifying their Surprize, that at a Time, when so many have taken this Method of promoting public Undertakings, a SEMINARY, of such Importance, should not also put in for a Share of the general Benevolence. This, added to the other Schemes for the Support and Improvement of the College, will afford so many Friends of that Institutoin, an Opportunity of contributing with very little Risk of losing, and a considerable Chance of Gain to themselves, who would not incline that the small Sums they could spare, should appear in a Subscription Paper.

As a Number of Tickets are already engaged, and many Gentlemen of extensive Acquaintance have interested themselves in this Measure, the Drawing will commence the First Week in October next, in the Town of New-Castle on Delaware, and a List of the fortunate Numbers published, and sent to the several Towns and Places where the Tickets may be sold. The Prizes, after deducting Fifteen per Cent. for the Purposes of the Lottery, will be paid by the Gentlemen of whom they were purchased.

Orders for Tickets will be complied with, by applying to Richard Stockton, Jonathan Serjeant, Esqrs. or Mr. Enos Kelso, at Prince-Town; to William P. LONDON, June 11.

VER ſince the commencement of the preſent reign, there has been a party of men, who, upon all occaſions, declared themſelves for an enquiry into the conduct of our Miniſters, and for puniſhing them if they ſhould be found to deſerve it, yet were always obſerved to oppoſe every previous ſtep neceſſary for entering upon an enquiry; nay, from their conduct it is evident, that if it were ſet on foot they would oppoſe every thing towards rendering an enquiry effectual. The ſame party of men always declare, that we ought to be jealous of our liberties, and cautious of granting any power that may contribute to their overthrow; yet they are always ready to approve of every thing propoſed by the Court, and to think every power neceſſary for this exerciſe of government which our Miniſters declare to be ſo. Theſe are the people that our real patriots ſhould have their eyes upon, in order to expoſe and render them odious to ſociety.

The return of the French Ambaſſador to his own Court, we hear, is fixed for the latter end of next month, as his three years will then be expired, no other whatever but that being the true reaſon of his departure.

A Jew lately died at Berlin, who left immenſe ſums of money in a variety of odd legacies; amongſt the reſt, a million of Ducats to the King of Pruſſia; and ſent to the King, who came to him the day before he died, when he read this part of the will to his Majeſty, and then ſaid, you have taken from me as much already againſt my will, but of this I do make you a free gift.

June 12.

Yeſterday at a General Court of Proprietors of India ſtock, it was unanimouſly agreed, that General Monckton ſhould be appointed Commander in chief of the Company's forces in Bengal.

Yeſterday the commons in a committee of ſupply, came to the following reſolution, viz. that 8,750l. be granted to Mr. John Harriſon, as a reward for his time-keeper.

Whatever were the ſecret ſprings that moved the Court of Madrid to make ſo large an armament, it muſt certainly now have a different deſtination from that at firſt intended. As the forces by ſea and land of the Moors before Ceuta and Oran are amply ſufficient to demand the moſt ſerious attention of the preſent arms of Spain, and will be the cauſe, at this juncture, of theſe great equipments; a very favourable turn to England, and probably to the cauſe of Ruſſia.

Extract of an authentic Letter from Mr. MALONE, an Iriſh Gentleman at the Havannah, April 24.

"The Guaſco, Don Pedro Autillas, a Spaniſh frigate of thirty guns, has juſt arrived here from the coaſt of Chili in South-America, and brings the melancholy intelligence to the Spaniards, of the native Chileſians having abſolutely repoſſeſſed themſelves of beſt part of that country, having partly extirpated, and partly drove all the Europeans from it. The Chileſe are the braveſt people on the continent, and have never been entirely conquered ſince the days of the Adventurer Baldivia, who, in the year 1540, and for ſome time after, tyrannically obliged them to ſlave in the mines, and murdered many thouſands of them by various drudgeries and tortures, which inſpired them with a ſettled inveterate hatred to all the Spaniards, and that hate has deſcended from father to ſon, 'till at laſt they have gained the ſuperiority, and in ſome meaſure retaliated the cruelties exerciſed againſt their fore-fathers. This determined inſurrection began at the latter end of the year 1771, and continued to the middle of laſt year, with amazing ſucceſs on the ſide of the Chileſe, who poſſeſſed themſelves of the whole iſland of Chiloe, and ſeveral towns on the ſea-coaſts of Chili, together with the cities of Conception, Coquimbo, Villaica, &c. They likewiſe attacked St. Jago, the Capital, Baldivia, and the town of Imperial; but were, after doing much damage, repulſed, by the ſuperior diſcipline, and the artillery of the Spaniſh troops. But though repulſed they were not diſmayed; but left the attack of thoſe places, only to get together a larger body of men. This intelligence was communicated to the Governor of Lima, who immediately ordered a fleet of four ſail of the line, three frigates, and ſome ſmaller veſſels with troops, ammunition, and ſtores, to ſail immediately for Chili, and give every aſſiſtance in their power to the Spaniards, while the Governor himſelf gathered an army of forty thouſand men, moſtly Indians and Meſtizoes, and marched himſelf at the head of them, determined to reduce the Chileſe to obedience. After a tedious march the army arrived on the 10th of July, 1772, in the valley of Areve, near the town of the ſame name, where they found a body of Twenty-four thouſand Chileſe, who had received notice of their march, drawn up to oppoſe it. The Spaniſh troops immediately charged them, and after a little ſtand, the Chileſe ſeemed to make a retreat towards Araves, and the Spaniards followed them briſkly, but ſoon regretted their eagerneſs as fatal; being drawn into a narrow paſs, where freſh numbers of the Chileſe poured in upon them immediately, and made ſuch havock, that the Governor himſelf, with between eleven and twelve thouſand men only, made good a retreat, and got ſafe into the city of Baldivia, which they fortified and ſtrengthened againſt an expected attack. On the 22d of July, the Chileſe, to the amount of one hundred thouſand, inveſted the city, and having a number of field pieces with them, continued the ſiege with great fury. In the mean time the ſhips from Lima arrived in the harbour of Baldivia, and threw their men and ſupplies into the city, which protracted the ſiege 'till the 2d of Auguſt, when the victorious Indians entered at a breach, and ſetting fire to every part of the city, murdered without diſtinction Spaniard, Negro, and Indian. The Governor of Lima, and the Governor of Baldivia, with moſt of the Spaniards of note, and about 4000 others, eſcaped on board the ſhips, where the treaſures were lodged before; the reſt of the Spaniards, and their Indians, either fell ſacrifices to the fury of the Chileſe, or made a retreat to the country. Baldivia was ſoon burnt down to the ground; and ſuch was the antipathy of the Chileſe, that they razed every part of it, ſo that ſcarce a veſtige remains. The ſhips ſailed immediately back for the port of Callao, except the Guaſco, which was diſpatched with theſe advices to Old Spain, but put in here for proviſions. This account is nearly verbatim from that of Don Pedro and his officers."

June 14.

If the Miniſterial act of carrying the India Bill was to operate on the victims of Leadenhall alone, the flagrant injuſtice of it, ſays a correſpondent, ought to be reſented by every honeſt man in the kingdom; but all the dominions of Great-Britain, both foreign and domeſtic, have ſufficient reaſon to take the alarm, both on account of the danger of the precedent, and the too great power and influence which it tends to place in the hands of the Crown. A former Miniſter was ſaid to have conquered France in America, but our preſent one means to vanquiſh England in Aſia.

The much talked of alliance between Mr. JONATHAN, ſon of Sir Francis Bernard, and a branch of Lord Hillſborough's family, it is ſaid, is not likely to take place, THE BARONET obſtinately refuſing to make the proper and neceſſary ſettlements.

Mr. Dowdeſwell has been again offered the Chancellorſhip of the Exchequer, but he has declined joining the preſent Miniſtry.

In a manifeſto publiſhed by the Grand Signior, it is declared, that the Ruſſians inſiſting on the entire independence of the Tartars, was the ſole cauſe of his Sublime Highneſs breaking up the late conferences for peace.

Extract of a letter from Portſmouth, June 11.

"Laſt night Lord Edgcumbe came down, and hoiſted his flag on board the Dublin man of war at Spithead. The three diviſions of ſhips under the three different Admirals, Pye, Edgcumbe, and Spry, are this morning forming into the ſecond line of battle, in which ſtate they are to be when his Majeſty comes down. All the ſhips at Spithead are to be decorated with colours of all nations: ſeveral veſſels, entirely loaded therewith, are come up from Plymouth and Chatham dock-yards. Laſt night ſeveral Lords of the Admiralty, and likewiſe the Navy-Board, came here in order to prepare and get every thing ready for his Majeſty's reception."

LONDON, June 15.

We hear from Moldavia, by the way of Kaminieck, that Major-General Weiſſman had again beaten, beyond the Danube, near Babadach, a large detachment of Turks, and took one Aga and 600 men priſoners; that he afterwards directed his march towards Warna, where General Potemkin is at the head of a Ruſſian body of troops.

Extract of a Letter from Portſmouth, June 13.

"Friday afternoon his Majeſty's yachts the Auguſta, Capt. Bickerton; William and Mary, Capt. Norton; Fubbs, Capt. Percivall, with the Hazard ſloop of war, and the Greyhound cutter, came into the harbour with the admiralty flag flying on board the Auguſta; on their appearing in ſight, Capt. Harvey, and Mr. Bradſhaw, two of the Lords of the Admiralty, went off in the Commiſſioner's yachts on board the Auguſta, where was Lord Sandwich; having made a board, the Admiralty-flag was immediately hoiſted, and at Spithead was ſaluted by all the ſhips there, which ſalute was returned from the Auguſta, on board which the flag remained flying till the next morning, and then it was hoiſted on board the Barfleur at Spithead, and was ſaluted again, as before: Admiral Pye's flag is removed to the Royal Oak. The Lyon tranſport is arrived, with his Majeſty's barge and bargemen.

June 17.

It muſt be pleaſant enough to hear a Miniſter gravely excuſing there being no lottery this year, when the apology ſhould be made for there ever being one at all. But one of the reaſons alledged, the expediency of giving the folly of the people a fallow ſeaſon, is indeed an incomparable one. It will be much for the benefit of the next crop.

Extract of a letter from Bombay, November 26.

"Our whole attention, at preſent, is taken up in an expedition againſt Broach, a ſmall way to the Northward of Surat. We made an attempt laſt year, and brought the Nabob to terms, who paid us a viſit at Bombay, and ſettled matters, but deceived us in the end, and trifled in ſo ſhameful a manner as to render it abſolutely neceſſary to ſubdue him, which we effected. He made a valiant defence, worthy a better character, he being dreaded by his own ſubjects, and every nation round us, as a cruel tyrant.

"The expedition was commanded by General Wedderburn, and Mr. Watſon, our ſuperintendant of marine; the troop conſiſted of about 1000 Europeans, and between 2 and 3000 Seapoys. The General, as I hear, rather diſapproving of the ground for the encampment, went to reconnoitre on horſeback, was noticed by the enemy, and ſhot through the head with a ginjawl, either from the walls, or through treachery, as the Nabob had made propoſals, but no faith could be put in him. Theſe people are ſo dextrous with the ginjawl piece, which is a very long gun, that it is common for a man to hit an orange at the diſtance of 150 yards, four times out of ſix. And in erecting our batteries, the people frequently play tricks, by putting a hat, with a cockade in it, on a ſponge ſtaff, which the enemy fire at, and often hit, to the diverſion of the ſoldiery, who humouroufly call it ſniping, and watch the flaſh to return the fire. In this unlucky manner fell General Wedderburn, of extenſive abilities, indeed too great for the field he had to act in, and well worthy a better fate; he was a warm friend, and poſſeſſed of many good qualities.

"On the 23d inſtant we received advice that Broach was attacked by ſtorm on the 19th, and that the firing had not ceaſed when the expreſs came away.

"We have this inſtant (ſince writing the above) received the agreeable news of the fall of Broach, where we have been very ſucceſsful, having only loſt, in the whole, the General, about ſix officers killed, and about ten wounded."

VENICE, (Italy) May 21. Two Veſſels arrived here from the iſland of Chios, which bring advice, that on the 17th of April the Ruſſian fleet, which lay at the iſle of Chios, and conſiſted of forty-two ſail of the line, beſides frigates, ſloops, galleys, tranſports, &c. was divided into three ſquadrons, one of which was to ſail for the coaſt of Syria, to ſupport the operations of Oſman Pacha, who is in poſſeſſion of Jeruſalem; another againſt the iſle of Candia, which has been lately put into a ſtate of defence; and the third, under Count Orlow himſelf, was to make a deſcent upon the Morea. Accordingly the ſquadrons ſeparated, and on the 2d inſtant Count Orlow arrived in the Sardonic Gulf, and landed his troops with a deſign to attack the city of Corinth, which was immediately put in execution, and after an engagement of near two hours between the Ruſſians and a large body of Janiſſaries, in the narrow paſs of the ridge of hills which commands the aſcent to Corinth, and is the only ſide on which that city can be attacked, victory declared for the former, who immediately poſſeſſed themſelves of the city and caſtle, and made the Turkiſh Baſha, and many other perſons of eminence, with 3500 Turkiſh ſoldiers, priſoners of war. Count Orlow gave orders that none of the Greeks or Turkiſh inhabitants, who did not bear arms, ſhould be moleſted, nor their effects or houſes plundered; on the contrary, he publiſhed a manifeſto of the Empreſs's, wherein ſhe declares, that ſhe holds it as a religious duty to free the Greeks from the Ottoman ſlavery. The towns of Coglia, Maina, Calmata, Navarino, and Modon, have ſent in their ſubmiſſion to the Ruſſians. A large treaſure, with a great quantity of ſmall arms, ammunition, &c. were found by the Ruſſians in the Baſha's palace and the public magazines, and ſeveral ſmall Turkiſh veſſels, laden with proviſions and ſtores, were taken at anchor in the Sardonic Gulf.

The ſquadron ſent againſt the iſland of Candia, loſt a great number of men, with four of their ſhips, occaſioned by running into the harbour of the town of Candia, which for many years paſt had been in a neglected ſituation, but of late the Turks had cleaned it out, and run an iron chain of great thickneſs across it under water, which not being known by the Ruſſians, four of their ſhips ſtruck upon it, and ſunk immediately: Several forts and batteries of great guns kept a briſk and well-directed fire upon the Ruſſian ſhips, and greatly annoyed them; however, they at laſt effected a landing, and in a few hours poſſeſſed themſelves of the place; but the ſoldiers and moſt of the inhabitants, with their moſt valuable effects, had thrown themſelves into a fort above two miles from Candia, on the way to Canea, or Cydon. In taking this place the Ruſſians, beſides the loſs of their ſhips, had 5200 men killed, and more than 2000 wounded, as the Turks fought with the greateſt bravery and reſolution."

PARIS, June 7. The populace at Guienne are not appeaſed. To quiet them ſome troops have been ſent, with a great quantity of grain. In one place, where the ſedition ran high, the ſoldiers refuſed to obey their officers, by firing among the people, for which ſeven have been condemned to death, and many others committed to priſon.

Yeſterday a committee of the Houſe of Commons went through the bill for allowing the free importation of cocoa and coffee from the American Colonies, with ſeveral amendments, which are to be this day reported.

Laſt night, at a meeting of the Livery at the Half-Moon tavern, Cheapſide, for the nomination of Sheriffs for the enſuing year, John Kirkman, Eſq; Alderman; Stephen Sayer, Eſq; and Mr. Alderman Plomer, were put in nomination for Sheriffs; when Stephen Sayer, Eſq; and Mr. Alderman Plomer, had a great majority in their favour.

LONDON, JUNE 21.

Lord North moved an addreſs to his Majeſty, that he would be graciouſly pleaſed to confer ſome mark of royal favour upon General Robert Monckton, for his ſignal ſervices, by granting to him a large quantity of land in the ceded iſlands, or to ſhew his royal favour in any other manner his Majeſty ſhall think fit. It paſſed nem. con.

It is now talked that Mr. Cornwall will be Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Lord North continue Firſt Lord of the Treaſury, and be made Preſident of the Council: And that Sir William Meredith will have a ſeat at the Treaſury Board.

This day, by virtue of a commiſſion from his Majeſty, the bill for eſtabliſhing rules and orders for the future management of the Eaſt-India Company;—the bill to prevent paper bills of credit from being declared legal payment in America; and ſeveral other bills received the royal aſſent.

Extract of a Letter from Aleppo, March 13.

"We have juſt received letters from Cairo, of the 30th of January, which bring advice that James Bruce, Eſq; was lately arrived in that city, from one of the moſt extraordinary voyages ever undertaken by an European, in which it often has been reported he had periſhed.

"In December 1768, he left Cairo, paſſing through Arabia Deſerta and Arabia Felix. He embarked on the Red Sea in Auguſt 1769, and in September arrived at a ſmall iſland on the frontiers of Abyſſinia. In November he gained an entrance into that jealous kingdom, and in February 1770 arrived at Gondar, the capital. In November he viſited thoſe famous ſources from whence the river Nile riſes. Returning to Gondar, he ſignalized himſelf ſo greatly in two battles gained by the King over his rebellious ſubjects, that he became ſo much in favour with that young Prince as to be refuſed all his petitions to return; but his health declining daily, at length, in January 1772, he was permitted to ſet out through Senaar. In November of that year he arrived at Barbar, the laſt inhabited part of that kingdom, and in twenty-five days croſſed the great deſart of Nubia. Here, reduced to great diſtreſs, his camels all periſhing with cold, he was obliged to throw away all his drawings, papers, and inſtruments, and, deſtitute of every thing, arrived in December at a ſmall village near the Cataracts at Aſſouan (Syene) Having got freſh camels, he again returned through the deſart, and having retrieved all his papers, books, &c. deſcended the Nile to Cairo, only one of the nine ſervants who entered Abyſſinia with him remaining alive.

"Mahomet, the reigning Bey of Cairo, deſiring out of curioſity to ſee him, after a long converſation ordered him to be preſented with a purſe of ſequins, covered with fruit and flowers, at the bottom of the ſtairs. Mr. Bruce took up one flower, and abſolutely refuſing the money, he was re conducted to the Bey to give his reaſons. 'I am (ſays he to the Bey) an Engliſhman, ſervant to a great King; it is not the cuſtom in my 'country to receive pecuniary gratuities from foreign Princes, 'without the approbation of our Sovereign." The Bey, ſtill more than ever ſurpriſed, diſmiſſed him with the greateſt marks of diſtinction."

PARIS, June 5. In the commotions at Languedoc, the Parliament of Pau, after aſſuring the inſurgents that they ſhould not want bread, to reſtrain them at the ſame time by fear, ordered ſeven gallowſes to be erected, threatening to hang up ſuch as ſhould be guilty of any further diſturbances. But the executioner, who ſuperintended the erecting of theſe gallowſes, was killed by a muſket-ſhot, and if the members themſelves had not ſpeedily retired, they would probably have ſhared the ſame fate.

LONDON, JUNE 23.

The bills to prevent the counterfeiting of bank notes or bills; and the bill to enable Meſſrs. Adams to diſpoſe of their buildings in the Adelphi, by way of lottery, are ready for the royal aſſent, having paſſed the Houſe of Lords yeſterday.

Yeſterday the Upper Aſſembly rejected the bill to prevent the infamous practice of ſtock-jobbing, without a diviſion.

It was half an hour paſt three o'clock yeſterday morning when the King ſet out from Kew to Portſmouth, and by the ſtages appointed, it is ſuppoſed his Majeſty reached that place about eleven the ſame morning. He will have a levee, and then, preceded and attended by the Admirals and the Captains there, will go to the Hulk Stairs, where the old barge uſed by Charles II. (which has been furniſhed up for this purpoſe) will receive the King, who will go on board the Barfleur.

The following is ſaid to be the reaſon why there was no lottery this year:—A noble Lord had propoſed a lottery to ſome gentlemen at twelve guineas per ticket for 60,000, or thirteen guineas per ticket for 50,000; they offered 12*l.* for 60,000, or 13*l.* for 50,000, but his Lordſhip replied, it would not be worth while, unleſs he could put 150,000*l.* clear into the Treaſury. They, on their part, rejected it, becauſe, they had only a probable profit of 4*s.* on each ticket, and a chance of loſing 18*s.* Upon this the budget was accordingly cloſed, but the day after, ſome others offered to take 60,000 tickets at 12*l.* 8*s.* and it is now in agitation, if not too late, to have a Lottery if poſſible.

It was an opinion which prevailed for more than a century, that the French were the greateſt politicians in Europe, but their pecuniary reſources having failed them, they are now fallen on a level with their neighbours; their intrigues in the North, in Germany, and Italy, are now at an end.

We hear from Newcaſtle, that laſt week the hay harveſt began in that neighbourhood; the crop is very large, and, if the weather continues fine, the price muſt be moderate.

Letters from Spain and Sicily give an account that they have the greateſt proſpect of a plentiful harveſt in both thoſe countries.

It is ſaid the Parliament will be prorogued on Thurſday the firſt day of July next.

Mr. Impey is to go to the Eaſt-Indies as Chief Juſtice, he having ſignified to the Lord Chancellor his acceptance of that high office; the other gentlemen have not yet come to a determination.

A correſpondent has copied from an evening paper of laſt night the following paragraph which he has deſired us to inſert with the following remark on it.—Among other ſtrange cuſtoms of manors in England, there is one, that whenever the King comes to Lotheby Manor near Guilford, in Surry, the Lord (who is at preſent Colonel Molineux) is to preſent his Majeſty with three Whores. Lotheby Manor lies in the road to Portſmouth, and his Majeſty muſt go through it. Quere, Whether Colonel Molineux performed the cuſtom?

Extract of a Letter from Paris, June 14.

"A Council of war was lately held at Breſt by the King's order, to try M. de la Marteliere, a Lieutenant of a man of war, who was accuſed of quitting his cruize towards St. Domingo, where he commanded a frigate of war, and going to Jamaica to take in goods, which he ſold privately; of ſaluting the Engliſh flag to the diſhonour of that of France; and of being guilty of treating with indignity a Lady who was a paſſenger on board his ſhip, the wife of one of the moſt conſiderable inhabitants of St. Domingo, of which her huſband made complaint to the Board of Marine, demanding ſatisfaction. In conſequence of theſe charges the Lieutenant has been degraded, broke, and condemned to 20 years impriſonment by Monſ. D'Aché, who preſided at this Court Martial."
